

UCC Meeting
February 5, 2019

- us to see that we needed to take a step back, look at everything again, and return to s meeting.
- Mike Swartwout proposed calling what we are working on “prototypes” rather than models, in order to stress the iterative process that we hope to continue with what we release to SLU community on April 5th will help us to continually stress that we are still working on these they are drafts that we know need more work, and that work can only move forward once UCC all thankfully agreed to this shift in nomenclature.
